Red Deer Advocate—Mr. E. C. Fisher, provincial Liberal organizer went through Red Deer on Thursday. "What's this we hear about our friend the ex-minister, about Smith?" queried the Advocate. "Smith—Smith—retorted Mr. Fisher. "Let's see, isn't he in jail down in Ontario somewhere for stealing provincial funds when he was treasurer for the Farmers' government down there?" So we called it quits.

Hockey Pictorial Book of Champions

The editor has received a copy of the Hockey Pictorial, 1926 edition, which is now on sale at all news stands, and which is at once the handsomest and most complete pictorial ever produced in the world for any single sport. It is a marvel in artistry and industry of achievement. It is impossible to speak too highly of it. The book represents years of effort. Typographically and pictorially it is a masterpiece. From cover to cover it is embellished with group pictures of championship teams from 1888 to 1925, in fact, the history of Canada's great national winter sport is told in pictures.

The book is not only lavishly illustrated, but is literally crammed with much interesting information regarding individuals, clubs and leagues throughout the country.

The book, which is published by George King, 84 Victoria St., Toronto, a well known sportsman, is a credit to the game and its publisher.

Here and There

Basking in brilliant autumn sunshine, the coast of British Columbia offers a striking contrast to the severe winter weather already making itself felt in other parts of Canada. On the coast, golf courses are crowded, the ocean is dotted with figures of bathers taking their daily dip, and pleasure craft ply the waters.

One hundred thousand dollars' worth of Black Fox puppies were shipped to Antwerp on the Canadian Pacific liner "Medea" recently. In specially built cages they will be conveyed by the Dominion Express across Europe to the farm in Switzerland where they will form the nucleus of a fox-breeding establishment.

Another instance of foolhardiness. A recent report from Hull is to the effect that an automobile, travelling at high speed, crashed through the gates at the Chelsea Road level crossing just as they were being lowered to stop traffic so that a light automobile should pass. The automobile smashed its way over the tracks barely two feet ahead of the locomotive.

Arthur Edward Shave, in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway since October 15, 1906, when he was appointed clerk in the office of the Treasurer, has been appointed assistant treasurer of the company.

Mr. Shave became assistant chief clerk in the office of the Treasurer in 1915 and was promoted Chief Clerk in 1919.

The apple is a typical Canadian fruit and among the finest grown in the Dominion. It is comparable as a Christmas gift for friends and relatives in Great Britain. In order to facilitate shipments, the Dominion Express Company are offering special rates. Standard boxes containing about 100 and standard barrels holding about 375 will be sent from Quebec or Montreal up to the stage of navigation to any station on a railroad in Great Britain or Ireland at a cost of $1 and 50c, respectively.

To perpetuate the memory of the late P. Alexander Peterson, whose engineers in this part of the country gather a portrait of the famous engineer, done in oils by the late Robert Harris, Canadian artist, is to be hung in the Engineering Institute on Mansfield street. The late Mr. Peterson, former engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, took a leading part in the railway construction in Eastern Canada during the latter part of the last century.

According to a report just issued from Canadian Pacific Railway headquarters, an average of one instance of gross carelessness on the part of automobilists every seventeen days in the record during the last three years and two months in connection with level crossings in New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and the Alberta Division. These instances number 68 from September 1, 1922, to October 31 last, or a period of 1,157 days. They resulted in injuries to 58 persons, of whom two died.

Creation of a new industry in Western Canada covering a product which is now imported into this country to the value of about five million dollars annually is foreshadowed by the samples of hemp now on display at the Windsor Station, Montreal, according to G. G. O'Malley, Development Engineer, Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. O'Malley stated that considerable work had already been done in the case of Canada towards the creation of such an industry. Efforts to promote companies have been made in recent months and there is no doubt that fine strands of hemp can easily be grown in certain districts.

Lumber industries of British Columbia are sending spruce to Boston and New York, far to Florida and Cuba, new markets created within the last few months. Demand for spruce is regular for markets in Great Britain, Asia, Australia and South Africa are reported better than usual.

The demand for Canadian flour is increasing rapidly in the Orient. This year 347,500 barrels of flour were exported from Medicine Hat mostly for the East. Great Britain is Canada's best customer for wheat flour, having taken 130,000 barrels of the total of 684,000 barrels exported during the month of August.

The Canadian Pacific Rockies are not "shot up" yet. Following a 30-day hunting trip, Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Lusk of Los Angeles, told of deer that walked right up to camp; bears that roamed all around in numbers; rams and mountain sheep in abundance; lakes full of trout caught with every throw of the line.

Despite alleged trade depression and "blue rain" talk, during the week ending October 31, 1925, 67 new companies were formed with authorized capital of $151,638,000, as compared with 69 companies with $112,914,275 capital the previous week, and with 57 companies with $7,568,000 capital, the corresponding week of last year.

During the 96 hours, from Monday, November 3, to Thursday, November 12, the Canadian Pacific Railway loaded a car of grain every 56 seconds, the total being 6,150 cars. On Wednesday, 1,600 cars were loaded and on Thursday 1,415, the record for the year and for many years past, was reached on Friday, November 13, when 1,994 cars were loaded.

Involving the use of 34,4 million tons of crushed rock or about 70,000 carloads, approximately 1,000 miles along the Canadian Pacific Railway, Eastern Lines, have been ballasted with rock to date. Rock ballast is dustless and there is a very great increase in comfort for the passenger. Rock ballasting also increases the strength of the track and otherwise improves its physical condition as to drainage and other matters.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has announced the offer of three free scholarships to apprentices and other employees enrolled on the permanent staff of the company and under 31 years of age, and to minor sons of employees. The scholarships cover four years tuition in architecture, chemical, civil, mechanical or electrical engineering at McGill University and are subject to competitive examination.

Taking steps in the United States toward a greater recognition of clean sportsmanship and the need of conservation of fish, game and forest resources, Oakes Ripley, of Tennessee, editor of Field Stream, Outdoor Life, Outing, announced at Montreal recently that catching game fish with worms had been banned in practically all states of the republic. Worm fishing is considered destructive as small fish returned to the water are too badly wounded to live.

Sugar beet production in Canada is increasing on a phenomenal scale while the value of refined beet sugar has increased about 100 per cent. in 1924. In 1923, 31,111 acres were planted to sugar beets yielding 295,177 tons of beets, from which 85,770,700 pounds of sugar was refined with a value of $2,929,485. In 1924 there was a yield of 159,200 tons of beets from 17,941 acres. The value of the 39,425,160 pounds of sugar refined was $3,745,200.

Radium Hot Springs In The Rockies

Radium Hot Springs near the St. John River, British Columbia. The Radium Hot Springs, located in the Canadian Rockies, is a popular resort. The image shows a view of the mountains and the hot springs area.

Sixty-three years ago, when Sir George Simpson was making the first overland tour around the world, he came across some hot springs on the western slopes of the Rocky Mountains which the local Kootenay Indians frequented on account of their curative properties. As the white settlers came in after the Wild Horse Creek Gold Rush, these came to be called The Fairmont Hot Springs, and became a well known landmark on the Government road from Lake Windermere to Cranbrook. In 1912 an English rancher, Mr. Reap Holland, purchased them and erected bathing facilities, and two years ago made extensive improvements in connection with his development of a hanging camp. The waters on analysis proved to contain a higher percentage of radium in solution than any other Springs on the American Continent, slightly higher even than those at Arkansas, in addition to valuable curative deposits of magnesium and lime. The Canadian Pacific Railway had obtained right of way through his property in consideration of calling their station Radium, and these Radium Hot Springs now attract many visitors, the camp having a capacity for seventy persons. A special bus is now being constructed for the Indians, and the superintendent of Louis Arbel, the Kootenay Chief, while the white folk have a spacious swimming pool surrounded by scrupulously clean dressing rooms. There is a tennis court and horses with guides are available for riding the neighboring trails. While large numbers of automobilists visit the Springs during the summer months, Mr. Reap Holland has the intention of making this an all-year resort, as the waters have a temperature of 120 and over degrees.

The only fit in the continent is that the Government operator of hot Springs on the Banff-Windermere Road which are also called Radium Hot Springs, this being the most office address. These Springs are also highly curative, and have also a neighboring hotel, which was erected by the Canadian Pacific Railway, and is operated very successfully by the Misses Armstrong. The Government Hot Springs were known not only to the Indians but to the animals, and it is credibly reported that in the old days bears used to bathe their heads in the waters to secure relief from rheumatism. While there is a natural confusion through the duplication of names, both resorts are rapidly increasing in popularity, chiefly owing to the increase in automobile traffic through the Rockies.

When Dreams Come True

Bumper crops and good prices have given western farmers an opportunity to visit scenes of bygone days. Britishers who took up farm lands in the Canadian West are taking advantage of the good season. Out-door life, Outing, announced at Montreal recently that catching game fish with worms had been banned in practically all states of the republic. Worm fishing is considered destructive as small fish returned to the water are too badly wounded to live.

Christmas and New Year in London! What visions these exiled sons of England had conjured up in the long, lean years before they wrestled from the soil their means of return. And now to be there again. Of course, it is only for a while. But they cheerily accept the situation, for it is the scheme of affairs in their adopted country and work with increased enthusiasm and vigor. The maximum. They are better citizens for they will endeavor to make this Canada the staunchest and most prosperous link in the British Empire. Every prosperous farmer who returns to Great Britain in the next advertisement that the Dominion of Canada could possibly have. Every one of these is a booster, proving conclusively that men with the determination to work can do and win out in this country. Every westerner is directly or indirectly a disciple of the creed that "Happiness Must Be Earned."

Travelers who intended to reach the Old Country for Christmas came on the Imperial special from West in time to board the Canadian Pacific liner "Morgantown" and "Melia" at Saint John, N.B. About two hundred and fifty passengers crossed in time to get the S.S. "Melia" on December 10, while three hundred and fifty Canadian arrivals arrived in Saint John for the "Morgantown" sailing on December 11.

In these groups were passengers intended for various parts of the British Isles, and destinations as far as Vancouver, with her four smiling Canadian-born children. Snapshots of the first Canadian Pacific holiday special as the train passed through Winnipeg. Mrs. Patterson is paying a visit to her native land in Scotland at Road Meeting, Carlisle, Lancashire, for the first time since she came to Canada, twelve years ago.

The youngest member of the party, a little girl in a check gown, wanted to know what it was all about. She confided in mother afterwards that she and her brothers only seemed to be altogether "bon-bonny." This indicates a fine career as a moving picture star.

BARRE, SON OF KAZAN
James Oliver Kuwoud
A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH
Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page & Co.
"BARRE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitaphone Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, as Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

Darce, the wolf-dog, had left the cabin of Pierré, the trapper, to join the wolf pack. But the wolves would not have him—he was only half-wolf, and back to the cabin he went to be the guardian and pet of Nepeese, the trapper's daughter, henceforth. One day Pierré received word from McGarg that he was asking him to go to Lac Baïn and help in the general store for a few days while McGarg was away. It was a strange request and caused Pierré to wonder.

"And—Nepeese," said Pierré. "Maien expects me to bring her." From the stove the Willow bent her head to listen, and her heart leaped true again at Della's answer. "Life could swallow about that. But surely—it will be a great change for the m'selle."

Pierré nodded. "Possibly, Neotomian." When Della was about to leave the next morning, Pierré said: "Tell Maïen that I will leave for Lac Baïn the day after tomorrow."

After Della had gone he said to Nepeese: "And you shall remain here, Ma cherie. I will not take you to Lac Baïn. I have had a dream that Maïen will not go on a journey, but that he has died, and that he will be sick when I arrive at the post. And yet it should happen that you care to go."

Nepeese straightened suddenly, like a reed that has been caught by the wind. "Non!" she cried, so fiercely that Pierré laughed, and rubbed his hands.

As it happened that on the second day after the fox-hunter's visit Pierré left for Lac Baïn, with Nepeese in the dog-wagon his good-bye until he was out of sight.

On the morning of this same day Hugh McGarg rose from his bed. It was still dark when the time had come. He had hesitated at murder—the killing of Pierré; and in his hesitation he had found a better way. There could be no escape for Nepeese.

He ate his breakfast before dawn and was on the trail before it was yet light. Purposely he struck deep enough so that in coming up from the south and west Pierré would not strike his dog's tracks. For he had made up his mind now that Pierré must never know and must never have a suspicion, even though it cost him many more miles to travel than he would not reach the Gray Loon until the second day. It was better to be door when the Factor from Lac Baïn entered the cabin, and for a few seconds she did not turn. Her first thought was of Pierré—for some reason he had returned. But even as she thought came to her, she heard in Barre's throat a snarl that brought her suddenly to her feet, facing the door.

McGarg had not entered unprepared. He had left his pack, his gun, and his heavy coat outside. He was standing with back against the door, and at Nepeese—her wonderful dress and flowing hair—he was staring as if stunned for a space at what he saw. Pale, or ashen, was playing against the Willow now.

It was not a long interval in which their eyes met in that terrible silence—terrible to the girl. Words were unnecessary. At last she understood—understood what her peril had been that day at the edge of the camp and in the forest, when fearfully she had played with the maniac that was confronting her now.

A breath that was like a sob broke from her lips. "Maïen!" she cried to say. But it was only a faint effort. She seemed choking.

Faintly she heard the click of the door as it locked the door. McGarg advanced a step. Only a single step McGarg advanced. On the floor three feet from McGarg stood the door. McGarg moved. He had not made a sound but that a warning mar—ried McGarg took the step. And then, like a flash, he was up, and in front of Nepeese, every inch of his body on end; and at the very in his McGarg lunged back and forth the barred door. A word from McGarg in that moment, and it would have been over. But an instant later he was back—his hand before her eye—that moment when her cry came. Then a flash and a deafening explosion along in the Willow's eyes. It was a chair shot, a shot from the hip with McGarg's automatic barrel full short. He struck the floor with a thud and rolled against the log wall. There was not a flick or a quiver left in his body. McGarg laughed nastily as he shoved his pistol back in its holster. He knew that only a brain shot could have done that.

With her back against the farther wall, Nepeese was waiting. McGarg could hear her panting breath. He advanced halfway to her.

"Nepeese, I have come to make you my wife," he said. She did not answer. He could see that her breath was choking. She raised her hand to her throat. He took two more steps and stopped. He had never seen such eyes.

"I have come to make you my wife, Nepeese. Tomorrow you will go back to Nelson House with me, and then back to Lac Baïn—forever." He added the last word as an afterthought. "Forever," he repeated.

It was not mine words. His courage and his determination were his. He saw her body drop a little against the wall. She was powerless. There was no escape. Pierré was gone. He was dead.

He had thought that no living creature could move as swiftly as the Willow. He knew that. He knew that she made no sound as she darted under one of his outstretched arms. He made a jump, a brutal grab, and his fingers caught a bit of her hair. He heard the snap of it as she tore her hair free and flew to the door. She had thrown back the bolt when he caught her and his arms closed about her. He dragged her back, and now she cried out—cried out in despair for Pierré, for Barre, for some miracle of God that might save her.

On Neck, Spread in Little Red Spots, Cultured Healed.

"A few little pimples appeared on the back of my neck. They itched and burned so badly that I scratched them, and the more I scratched the worse they itched. The trouble began to spread in little red spots and I could hardly stand it. I lasted about a week before I read an advertisement for a free sample of your 'Pimple Cure.' After using it a few days I could see an improvement so purchased more. After less than three weeks I was free of the trouble. I am now at Delburne, Alberta, Dec. 16, 1914."

Indigestion Disappears When the Blood is Enriched
The urgent need of all who suffer from indigestion is a tonic to enrich the blood. Pain and distress after eating the way the stomach shows that it is too weak to perform the work of digesting the food taken. In this condition some people foolishly resort to purgatives, but these only further enfeeble the trouble.

New strength is given weak stomachs by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because these pills enrich and purify the blood. This is the natural process of giving strength and tone to the stomach, and it accounts for the speedy relief in stomach disorders that follow the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The appetite revives, food can be taken without discomfort and the burden and pains of indigestion are dispelled.

The following statement from Mr. Donald L. Lattin, Lakeville, N.H., shows how these pills in cases of this kind. He writes: "I was suffering from indigestion, had little or no appetite, and what I did eat did not agree with me and caused much pain. As a result of this trouble my general health broke down and I finally had to give up my work. I had taken doctors' medicine but it did not give me any relief. Then a friend advised me to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and I got a box. I had completed the third box when they were shipping him one by the time I had taken the sixth box and my general health was improved and I have since been in the very best of health. I look upon Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a wonderful tonic for all who are run-down."

An Amazing Experiment
New York Doctor Kept Fowl's Heart Alive Since 1913

A bit of tissue from a chicken's heart, kept alive since 1913 as part of an experiment begun at that time by Dr. Alexis Carrel, would have grown large enough to blanket Manhattan had it not been cut every twenty-four hours, according to Professor Arthur G. Green.

Professor Green said a nation picture record of what actually occurs as the tissue grows has been made by the Rockefeller Institute, where the experiment was conducted. "It was one of the most amazing things I ever saw," Professor Green said. "The film of the growth of the tissue was taken during twenty hours and must have involved a vast amount of work. What takes place in the twenty-four hours is reduced in it to a comparatively few minutes."

"You see on the screen a growth and a development nothing short of cosmic. Combustions, rippling, pulsations—all the marvels of biology seem to condense themselves into those few minutes."

"Dr. Carrel introduced immortality in a physical sense. It is there before your eyes, and no longer is this tissue a stunted and irrigated life. It will live. It cannot die. Its growth is so enormous that it doubles itself every twenty-four hours, and if not been pared down each day since the experiment began it would now be a colossal monster overreaching all New York."

Professor Green formerly was professor of chemistry at Leeds University and now is in charge of biological research for the British Dystonia Corporation.

The Oil for the Athlete—In rubbing down, the athlete will find Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil an excellent remedy. It renders the muscles and allows pliable, takes the aches out of them and strengthens them for strains that may be put upon them. It stands pre-eminent for all who are run-down. For many years, have been using it can testify to its value as a lubricant.
